

We had a busy, productive Thursday! Dried worms were on the menu for the chickens today. After morning snack friends collected grapes, cereal, and banana to feed to the chickens. Our chicken bucket was not full because this also happens to be a favorite snack among preschool friends. Turns out, as Vincent discovered, "chickens love dried worms, they jumped up to eat it!"

Harper works to make "a rainbow of colors" and Everett and Sloane work on a long train using "ALL of the blocks" added Sloane. Harper also noticed that Everett and Sloane like the color blue.

It was a treat to witness the concentration during this patterning exploration today. Everett continues to build large scale structures in the block area. "It's a different Westin" It actually has something that "shoots out" and "comes back."

Making Mirror Creations in the Atelier: Children experimented by making "medicines and vitamins" - Dalila

